CHICKASHA PICKS HATCHER AS NEW VETS COMMANDER

Third Ballot Brings Smaller Posts to Arms for Chickasha Vet

MOUNTCASTLE DROPS

Convention Selects Pawhuska As Meeting Place in 1925

J. F. (Jimmie) Hatcher of Chickasha will champion the cause of the Oklahoma Legion during the coming year as a result of his election to state commandery on the third ballot of the executive session of the Sixth Annual convention late yesterday afternoon.

The election of Hatcher came after a bitter fight on the floor of the convention and after the heavy end of the voting to Robert M. Mountcastle of Fort Gibson, the favorite of Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Muskogee posts and generally considered the controlling factors of legion election machinery.

After Hatcher's majority was established on the third, a move from the floor that the election be made unanimous through acclamation was passed and the commander of the Oklahoma Department for the ensuing year firmly established in the loyalty of the state department.

In the first round of voting, Mountcastle came within 75 votes of the needed majority to name him commander of the state legion. Under the boom furnished him by the Oklahoma City post's votes of 176 and the Tulsa and Muskogee vote of 55 and 34, Mountcastle came miraculously near the goal in the second round after Dr. C. A. Johnson of Wilson was eliminated because of being low man in the first ballot. Mountcastle again polled a heavy vote over his other opponents. Al Horton of Tonkawa and Hatcher, the deciding factor in the selection of Hatcher as commander came in the withdrawal of the name of Al Horton from the race after the second ballot. Horton's withdrawal turned the volume of his votes to Hatcher and the boom proved fatal to the hopes of Mountcastle.

Oppose Larger Cities Following the first vote after it was apparent that Mountcastle had aligned the votes of the three largest posts of the state, a current of opposition apparently formed thru the minor posts of the state to combat the influence of the major forces of the legion voting.

The convention, wearied from hours of struggle with legislative and department reports, settled down with vim and vigor to dispose of the concluding chapters of the most colorful, yet constructive assembly of the organization yet held in the state.

Adjutant J. William Cordell started booming out the names of the posts for nominations at 4:40 Tuesday afternoon and the struggle over the commandery ended shortly after 6 o'clock. Tulsa yielded to Fort Gibson, which yielded to Muskogee post, which presented Mountcastle's candidacy for consideration. Ardmore championed the candidacy of Dr. C. A. Johnson; Bartlesville placed Al Horton before the convention and Chickasha named its own state commander presenting the name of Jimmie Hatcher, to the convention and the machine of election was set to operation.

Following the election of Hatcher as state commander, the convention dragged into the consideration of three vice commanders for the state departments. Out of the nominations from the floor four candidates were presented and the first roll call of posts elected J. F. Endleman, whose residence was not learned; H. B. Lewis of Lawton and Grady Lewis of Sapulpa. Josiah Chatfield of Tulsa was re-elected department historian; A. G. Colton of Sallisaw re-elected finance officer.

A bitter fight between Ardmore and Pawhuska for the honor of entertaining state veterans in their next departmental convention was settled when Pawhuska nosed out the Ardmore delegation and the 1925 convention promised to the Osage capital.

The chaplain and adjutant offices in the state department are appointive legion honors and will be conferred at a later meeting of the new officials elected here.

LA FOLLETTE WEARS COMPROMISE HAT

Robert M. La Follette, independent candidate for president, is wearing neither the Democratic felt hat, nor the conservative and conventional Republican straw, but a chapeau with a crown of straw and a brim of felt, and political theorists are wondering if this indicates a policy of compromise.

AMERICAN FLIERS OFF FOR HOME LAP

Northland Island Stepping Stone to Return to United States

(By the Associated Press)

KIRK WALL, Orkney Islands, July 30.—The American around the world fliers on their way homeward arrived here from Brough, England, at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon.

BROUGH, England, July 30.—The American army aviators continuing their world flight, hopped off at 10:24 o'clock this morning for Kirkwall, capital of the Orkney Islands, off the north coast of Scotland.

Thus began the first leg of their journey over the Atlantic via Iceland and Greenland to Indian Harbor, Labrador.

Kirkwall, a town of 3,500, is situated on Houston bay, on the northeast side of the island of Pomona, the largest of the Orkney group. Stores of oil and gasoline await the fliers there and tow boats and repair men are ready in case they are needed.

The weather was calm with virtually no wind, but the sky was somewhat overcast as the aviators in their three planes took off with the good wishes of a small crowd ringing their ears.

They described a short circle after the hop off then directed their course for Slaborough, a promontory north of Drillington bay, evidently intending to follow the coast northward.

The six men were in the best of health and spirits and confident that success that has brought them 18,000 miles on their pioneering flight will not desert them during the last stage of their endeavor.

Before leaving the ground, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, flight commander, said they expected to reach Kirkwall in about six hours after their departure from this place. There were no official ceremonies at the hop off this morning.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A new 1924 information of the principal crops of Oklahoma in 1921, 1922 and 1923, has been prepared for distribution and highway map, with but by the state board of agriculture and enclosing. Any person in Oklahoma may obtain one by writing the board of agriculture and enclosing a two-cent stamp for return postage, according to John A. Whitehurst, president of the board.

In addition to the highway map there is data on the resources of Oklahoma and the acreage, production and value of the leading crops for the past three years.

The map is of particular interest to farmers, business men and newspaper offices, Whitehurst said.

Hundreds of hens were drowned in a flood in Holland recently.

Peggy Again Faces Marital Storm

NEW YORK, July 30.—A suit against her for annulment of her marriage, a counter suit by her for separation and her appearance as a witness in the trial of a prominent man for alleged bribery of a juror figured yesterday in the life of the Countess Gosta Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former wife of two American millionaires.

The countess first attracted a crowded court room when she appeared as a witness for the government in the trial of W. J. Sallon, charged with bribing Charles W. Readings in the Gregory-Durrelle mail cases in 1922.

She told of a party where Sallon had left the table a few minutes before dinner was served. The government is attempting to prove that it was in this interval that Sallon paid Readings $1,000.

Countess Morner came into the chambers and stepped immediately into a part that focussed more attention to her. An attorney was waiting to serve papers for a suit by her husband to annul their marriage. She consulted her lawyers immediately and drew up papers for a counter suit in which she asked to recover $10,000 she alleged she had spent on the count during their short married life. The count and Peggy Joyce were married at Atlantic City a few months ago, coming to New York a few days later. Rumors of differences between them have been flying for some time and those were confirmed last night by the count who stated that they began a short time after the marriage.

He stated that he was disinclined to file suit for sometime because of his desire to keep his wife from undue publicity, but that her inclination to capitalize his name and title on the stage after promising she would not, and her intimations to the public that she supplied him with funds and other incidents were too much for him.

OFFICERS OBJECT TO STAGING COURT CASE

CHICAGO, July 30.—Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, "Topsy and Eve" the comedians in the role of prosecutors' witnesses, were to resume their appearance today on the stage of an Evanston theatre in a case against policemen charged with breaking Topsy's nose and ribs July 4 as her brother was arrested for a traffic rule violation.

Attorneys for the officers, the chief of police and three patrolmen charged Justice H. G. Williams by moving the trial to the theatre was "making a vaudeville show of the trial."

Behind the footlights on a flower decked stage the crowded house cheered the actresses and booed the policemen as the hearing proceeded.

ADA DESERTED AS VETS RETURN HOME

Three Days of Celebration Ends and Ada is Left Peaceful

(By the Associated Press)

LANCASTER, Mass., July 30.—After a night of disorder and clashes in which scores were injured, a crowd of men who had engaged in hostilities with members and spectators of a Ku Klux Klan gathering in a field near here were dispersed with the arrival of additional state patrolmen today. Between 500 and 800 men had engaged in the fighting during the night.

The list of injured today following the night's fighting included five men, whose injuries were so serious as to require treatment at hospitals. One was a policeman who was struck on the head with a stone.

Three men were suffering from wounds believed to have been caused by a shotgun loaded with rock salt.

Many others are known to have been hurt with stones, clubs and other missiles.

The hostilities, which broke out last night when 300 Klansmen and friends and spectators assembled in a field near here which they had rented only to be beleaguered by a crowd of between 300 and 500 men, came as the culmination of bitter feeling existing for some time.

Another Outbreak Reported. While fighting was in progress here, a similar outbreak occurred in Spencer, several miles away, when a crowd showered with stones, cars carrying persons away from a Ku Klux meeting there. State police dispersed the crowd and arrested five men. At Westminster near here a third meeting was held without disorder.

Two clashes took place during the night between the crowd within the field and those outside.

As the night wore on, police, handicapped by the numbers of the crowd and scattered positions of the attackers were able only to keep the road clear. When dawn broke, 150 men still remained in the road outside and a similar number were within the field. With the coming of morning the crowd in the roadway broke up. Police reinforcements dispersed the remainder and those who had been forced to remain within the field were able to leave.

ENID WOMAN NAMED PRESIDENT FOR STATE

Mrs. E. I. Preston of Enid was made president of the Oklahoma Legion Auxiliary at the conclusion of their convention here in union with the Oklahoma Departmental Legion Convention. The meeting adjourned late Tuesday afternoon.

The business of Tuesday afternoon was considerably delayed by the carrying over of matters from the morning session.

The reports of committees occupied the early part of the afternoon.

The following officers were elected at the convention.

Mrs. E. I. Preston, Enid, president.

Mrs. Warren Butz, Muskogee, 1st vice president.

R. Wright Armstrong, general agent for the T. & B. V. Railway company of Texas, W. R. Hudson and E. S. Sandmyer of the Veterans Bureau, all from the department of Texas, attended the Legion convention here as representatives of the Texas legion.

The Texas department holds their annual convention at Brownwood, and Mr. Armstrong will have charge of the entertainment. The 90th division at Brownwood in August and Mr. Armstrong invites all members of that organization to come down.

The Texas Legionnaires said Ada certainly knew how to entertain visitors and they hoped to see many Oklahomans at Brownwood.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR AIR MEETING

Commercial and Military Air Authorities to Meet at Tulsa

(By the Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., July 30.—Plans virtually are complete here for a big military and commercial air meet, to be held next month, the first of its kind this year. The meet will be sponsored by the Oklahoma Flying club and funds derived will be used to purchase airplanes for the organization's members.

The local club is the only one in the Southwest to carry out such a project. It is planned to purchase at least two planes and possibly four, which will be of the training type, the army employed during the war.

Aviation is lagging in Oklahoma, members of the club are agreed, and inasmuch as commercial rates on planes are so high airmen cannot afford to rent them for their use, it is up to the club, a body organized to promote flying, to aid the men who are anxious to continue their experiences in the air.

Roy Tucker, one of the leaders, told the club at a recent meeting. Tucker was an airman attached to the Italian army during the World war. His appeal insured the endorsement of the plan.

Army planes will be sought for the meet from Kelly Field, Texas, Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla., and Muskogee. More than 50 of various types and speeds, including pursuit, attack, bombardment and observation planes, are expected.

A small admission charge will be made at the field. The money will immediately be turned over to the purchasing agent, who will arrange terms for the purchase of planes.

When assembled, the qualifying pilots in the club will be permitted to rent the planes at nominal charges, a plan only carried into effect by a few clubs in the country.

Instructors will be employed to tutor those members who have become "rusty" in their knowledge of flying.

A corps of mechanics will keep the machines in trim.

Cotton Takes Break (By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Cotton broke $5.00 a bale today from yesterday's close on reports of rain in the southwestern states and the belief that the Texas crop was not injured as much by dry weather as had been indicated. October sold as low as $3.05.

FORT SILL.—More than 7,000 Oklahomans will be engaged in the game of mimic warfare at the United States army reservation here during the month of August.

In addition to the more than 5,000 national guardsmen who will be encamped for two weeks, beginning August 4, there will be more than 1,700 men in the Citizens Military Training corps camp which opens August 1 for a month and the two weeks encampment of the 300 reserve officers. Brig. Gen. Leroy Irwin, commander of Fort Sill will be in command of the citizens and reserve camps and instructions will be directly under his command.

Some of Chicago's richly furnished elevated cars cost $22,000 each.

Vets Name Him

J. F. HATCHER "Jimmie" Hatcher of Chickasha, who was late yesterday afternoon elected commander of the Oklahoma Department, American Legion. Hatcher spent many years of his life at Stonewall in this county and is remembered by many pioneers of Ada and Pontotoc county.

Hatcher is a native of Oklahoma. He was born in Pontotoc county thirty-five years ago. Hatcher, who is principal of the Chickasha senior high school, has spent the past seven years in school work at Chickasha. He began as principal of the junior high school. He holds degrees from Oklahoma University and University of Florida. He is also an alumnus of Central State Teachers' college at Edmond and for the past four seasons has served as a member of the summer faculty of the school.

During the World War Hatcher served with the United States naval forces with the rank of ensign. He is a past commander of the Raymond T. Hurst post, American Legion, at Chickasha. He is at the present time president of the Lions club, is a Mason, and is married.

REFORMATORY IS SCENE OF FIGHT

Fighting of Inmates Brings Calls for Police From Near Towns

(By the Associated Press)

RAHWAY, N. J., July 30.—Police reserves from Rahway and Woodbridge were called to the Rahway reformatory this afternoon to quell a riot among the prisoners.

Three of the inmates were shot in the rioting, one probably fatally and one guard was injured.

The disturbance started in the dining hall and spread throughout the open sections of the reformatory.

Supt. Frank Moore called for 10 state troopers to be sent to the reformatory and remain until the trouble is quelled. One wounded inmate received a bullet in the abdomen from one of the guards who threatened to shoot if the fighting did not stop. He is not expected to recover. Another inmate was wounded in the foot and a third in the leg by bullets from the guard.

The wounded guard was struck on the head, presumably with a club. His condition is not serious.

According to officials of the institution, which is a boys' reformatory housing between 800 and 900, of whom 80 are negroes, the trouble started Monday night over a remark by a negro boy to a white boy. The latter carried fight to the open where his brother stood by him. For a time a race war was threatened, but Assistant Superintendent Templeton quelled it.

CROWE SLAPS AT CAVERLY ACTION IN MURDER CASE

Declares Pleas of Guilty Are Prohibitive to Argument On Sanity

JUDGE GETS HOSTILE

Crowe Contents State by Reading of Illinois Law of Pleas

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 30.—The big legal right by attorneys for Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Robert Franks, to save them from the gallows, broke out today in Judge John Caverly's court.

The state closed and the defense started testimony.

The defendants came into court with their customary smiles for their attorneys and relatives.

Judge Caverly called the attorneys to the bench and consulted with them as to separate hearings of the kidnapping charge. It developed that the hearing had been practically confined to the murder charge. The attorneys agreed that 30 minutes of formalities would suffice to dispose of the kidnapping indictment.

Dr. W. A. White of Washington, D. C., then was called to the stand as the first witness for the defense. He was questioned by Walter Bachrach, defense counsel.

"State your professional experience," said Mr. Bachrach. "I object," said State's Attorney Crowe.

"Why," asked Judge Caverly, and the big legal fight of the proceedings was on.

During the argument Judge Caverly declared that the defense would not be permitted to go into evidence of insanity and demanded to know from the state whether it had any authorities to show what would prevent him from hearing evidence on the state of mind or mitigation.

When the argument had lasted 90 minutes, in which the state contended that the defense was trying to plead both sanity and insanity at the same time, Mr. Bachrach suggested that an hour and a half had been wasted.

"No," said Judge Caverly, "it has not been wasted. The court will take a day and a half on this, if necessary."

"The plea of guilty stops any plea of insanity," declared Mr. Crowe. "I insist they have no more right to introduce that plea than they have to plead guilty and then try to show they were in California when the crime was committed."

"It is overruled," said Judge Caverly.

"But, your honor," said the state's attorney, "if the court sentenced these men to a term in prison satisfactory to them and their attorneys, the state is powerless. It cannot appeal. I would like to read the Illinois law on the subject."

Mr. Crowe read from the statutes the enactment governing the conduct of murder trials in which a plea of insanity is offered by the defense. He pointed out that the law provided that as soon as the question was raised, "it shall be the duty of the court to empanel a jury and that that body should determine the question."

"Could language be more explicit?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"Does the defense here desire a trial before a jury when they have resisted a trial before 12?"

"From the moment you hear evidence on insanity this becomes a mock trial. After pleading guilty to cold blooded murder the defense in effect have tried to escape the consequences by offering a plea of insanity."

"Who said they are offering to plead insanity," asked the judge. "I have a perfect right to go into the state of the defendants' mind and learn what that had to do with the circumstances of the crime. I agree that this court cannot pass on the question of insanity but unless I conclude that these men must be insane, on which point I must empanel a jury. I can inquire into the mental circumstances of their act."

"We are not going into the insanity question at all," announced Mr. Bachrach.

Leopold and Loeb leaned forward slightly in their chairs taking in every word of the extended argument.

Finally the court repeated that he was not going to admit any testimony at this hearing to show that the defendants were insane, but that he was certainly permissible to show under what mitigating circumstances may have had on their actions.

BAPTIST MINISTER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

No greater praise can be accorded a medicine than the voluntary testimony of a minister of the gospel. The preacher's high calling puts a grave responsibility on his every word, and he will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right.

Tanlac has been endorsed by numbers of prominent ministers. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service, and their words carry conviction because they say what they know to be the truth.

One of the latest to speak out in behalf of Tanlac is Rev. B. E. Bell, a retired Baptist minister, 297 Elm St., San Antonio, Texas, who says: "Before taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach and nerve troubles for over 30 years and there were times when my condition was such that it required almost superhuman effort for me to prepare my sermons and go through with my Sunday services. Indeed, my work seemed like some great obstacle across my pathway—a burden too big to carry in my weak physical condition.

"But in six weeks' time Tanlac transformed my entire outlook, giving me what seemed like a new set of nerves and a brand new digestive system. My appetite became ravenous, my nerves steady, my liver action regular and I could sleep sound for the first time in years. Whenever I have the slightest symptoms of trouble now I always resort to Tanlac, am taking some at present, and it never fails to smooth things out for me. I certainly have the best of reasons for feeling grateful to Tanlac."

Library One of Valuable Legion Aims

The Norman Howard post of Ada will have the most complete legion library in the state to show veterans when they trek here to the annual departmental convention July 28.

A library, complete in every detail, will be available to Buddy if he desires to wise up on the latest literary creations of leading authors of the universe and George Overturf, librarian-legionnaire who is responsible for the collection of the books, will be on hand to assist veterans of the book-worm variety.

Overturf, one of the hardest workers in the Norman Howard post and one of the strongest leaders in the drive for a successful convention, has accumulated a library of 1250 volumes during the past three months and has not yet designated his goal for a suitable library for Ada vets and their visiting friends.

When Overturf took over the difficult job of establishing a post library he was encouraged by the vision of its usefulness in the spacious legion quarters of the post in the coming winter months and the drags heavily for vets doing bunk fatigue in the post's quarters.

While the post library is dedicated to the use of its members, Overturf is anxious that its scope include the public and that Ada citizens may feel at liberty to draw on the post literary wealth.

The establishment of the library has been made possible, according to Overturf, through the liberal contributions of Ada book lovers and through the state library commission. Several Ada men have contributed valuable assortments of literature to the legion library.

OIL NEWS

The Bowles and Smith well was put on the pump today, but it took some time to make the adjustments. It will be a day or so before any estimate of the size of the well can be made.

The hole was about full of oil when the pumps started, according to reports from the well.

Several oil scouts and lease brokers are watching developments closely. The shallow depth of the well and the grade of oil make the proposition look promising.

Many Applicants for Judges

The only break in the plans for the Norman Howard post's Fourth of July celebration at their party here comes with the selection of judges for the bathing beauty award, according to Ralph Waner, in charge of the celebration.

Waner declares that a number of applicants have insisted on serving as judges for the contest and have pledged their services without charge.

Waner believes that a sinister motive lies beneath the anxiety of many of the candidates, and not their willingness to be of service to the legion. The celebration manager declared that several of the applicants are not capable of the task because of inferior vision.

Waner announced that decision as to judges for the contest would be made a few hours before the contest opens.

CHISHOLM-BALLARD WEDDING WEDNESDAY

One of the attractive home weddings of the season took place Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ballard 1219 Bolivar street, when their daughter, Miss Margery Ballard, became the bride of William Wallace Chisholm of Henryetta, Okla. Rev. J. M. Perry, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated with the ring ceremony.

The marriage service was performed before an altar banked with smilax, orchid field flowers, cape jasmine, and English ivy, while palms marked the approach of the wedding party. A yellow and white theme was carried out in the dining room with table cover in imported Oriental white satin embroidered in yellow, and in Shasta daisies held in tall wicker baskets.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Earl Selz of Pilot Point sang two pre-nuptial solos, "For You Alone" and "At Dawning," accompanied at the piano by Miss May McClurkin, who also played the bridal march from Lohengrin.

The bride wore a gown of cocoa crepe and gold lace with picture hat of poudre blue straw trimmed in pastel shades. She carried a shower bouquet of pink premier roses and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her brother Francis Ballard of Trinidad.

Mrs. Lee Carney of Dallas was matron of honor. She wore a gown of alrodale crepe with purple picture hat.

Arch Chisholm of Henryetta, Ok., brother of the groom, acted as best man.

An informal buffet luncheon served to the wedding guests followed the ceremony. Only immediate friends and out-of-town relatives of the two families were present. Mrs. Eula Carroll, Mrs. W. E. Mann and Mrs. L. M. Ellison assisted in receiving and serving the guests.

The bride and groom left soon after the ceremony for a visit to Texas and Oklahoma cities before making their home in Henryetta.

Mrs. Chisholm is a graduate of the College of Industrial Arts and of the Northwestern University, and is a former student of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She is a former member of the faculty of the Teachers College here and prior to her marriage was director of the school of music of the East Oklahoma Teachers College, Ada, Okla.

The groom, who is engaged in business in Henryetta, is a world war veteran, and served as instructor in the American Expeditionary School in France.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Arch Chisholm of Henryetta, Okla., Mrs. Lee Carney of Dallas, Francis and Nelson Ballard of Trinidad, brothers of the bride, Mrs. Earl Selz of Pilot Point, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sullivan and Homer R., of Henryetta, Okla.—Denton Record-Chronicle.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
THOU ART A GOD READY TO PARDON, GRACIOUS
AND MERCIFUL, SLOW TO ANGER, AND OF GREAT KINDNESS.—Nehemiah 9:17.

Nathan Leopold, confessed slayer of Robert Franks, was traced through the finding of a pair of spectacles near the culvert where the body was found. In his confession he says he stumbled as they were carrying the body to the culvert and supposes they fell out of his pocket then. He is not the first criminal to stumble and be enmeshed by the law. Somehow criminals generally leave a clue which sooner or later leads to their apprehension. Had the glasses not been lost it is probable that the murder would still be unsolved and take its place as a mystery, but the fact remains that they were lost and thus clinched the case against the youthful killers.

The interallied conference at London is having hard sledding. Warned by past experience of the worthlessness of a German promise France and Belgium insist on being in a position to force Germany to come across while some of the others are inclined to be less insistent. Above all the bankers who are expected to put up the loan to Germany want a hard and fast agreement for France and Belgium to keep hands off. The result is a deadlock that does not bode well for the outcome of the meeting which was called to put the Dawes plan for reparations into operation.

Our Francis correspondent writes that already work of unloading materials for the big pipe line that is to pass through Pontotoc county are being unloaded there and hauled to needed points. Since the company is said to be planning to establish a pumping station near Francis and will place a number of employes there, it will be a nice payroll for our neighboring town, thus adding to its prosperity. We congratulate our neighbor on her good luck. Now if a big gusher is brought in somewhere in that vicinity, Francis will be strictly in the swim.

The corporation commission has ordered the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co., to cut its price for gas but that does not mean that it will be done. A long fight through the courts is the next move in order. A number of years ago the commission ordered phone rates in Ada cut but it wasn't done by a long shot. Between the state and federal courts and the Interstate Commerce commission the Oklahoma corporation commission has a rocky road at all times.

The Tulsa Chamber of Commerce is planning to spend a good many thousands of dollars in advertising the city with a view of securing more factories, particularly a cotton factory. Tulsa is a striking example of a village that became a city because its citizenship was united when the vital interests of the place were at stake, and it's a lead pipe cinch that it will get what it goes after this time.

It is some joke to hear of the La Follette bunch asking for $3,000,000 for campaign purposes. That is not a large sum when compared with the millions the Republicans are in the habit of digging up, but La Follette has had so much to say about these big funds that it is amusing to hear him talking in such big figures.

When all is said and done about new theories of education the stern fact remains that the boy or girl who is really educated must dig it out just as we older ones did years ago. No method has yet been found to put anything worth while into an ivory head.

All five candidates for United States senator declare they have the race won. However, about four of them a week hence will be explaining how it happened that they missed their guess. All of them are now listening at their own keyholes, hence they hear nothing but favorable reports.

The Brazilian revolution is over, so the government of that country reports, but it will afford a good excuse for raising the price of coffee and thus force the coffee drinkers to pay some of the costs of the squabble.

Hogs have once more passed the 10 cent mark at Oklahoma City. With higher prices for their products it looks like the farmers of Oklahoma are in a fair way to come back good and strong this fall.

Cotton continues to run up and down the scale of prices. This morning the News received a very bullish letter from a cotton firm in New York and an hour later the Associated Press stated that at the opening of the market today it took a tumble of $5.00 a bale. However, perhaps by tomorrow it will jump up again. Just a case of knock down and get up.

CAMPAIGN TO STOP WAR IS LAUNCHED

Campaign of World Cooperation to Prevent War to be Discussed at Meeting

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A campaign for world co-operation to prevent war will be opened tomorrow by 36 organizations represented in the National Council for Prevention of War.

"Stop war! Co-operate!" is the slogan adopted for the movement, and its sponsors say that it will cover nearly every state in the union. One hundred and fifty thousand ministers have been asked to preach sermons on "World Cooperation" next Sunday, and public meetings will be held in many places.

The council has announced that all of the presidential candidates will be asked the question: "How far will you co-operate for world peace?" and that later the same question will be asked of candidates for the senate. It is proposed by the organization to carry on the work for an initial period of three months after the opening days of its drive.

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the council, said today the purpose was to "mobilize for peace now, and during the next three months to show these men who want to represent us in the national government that the will of the American people is for co-operation in international affairs."

A statement by the council said those behind the campaign believed "the time has come to eliminate 'isolation' once and for all and establish 'co-operation' as America's foreign policy."

Organizations listed as represented in the council are:

The American Association of University Women, American Farm Bureau Federation, American Federation of Teachers, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Foreign Policy Association, National Board of Farm Organizations, National Board Y. W. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National Education Association, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, National Kindergarten Association, National League of Women Voters, National Milk Producers' Federation, National Reform Association, National Women's Trade Union League, Peace Association of Friends of America, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, Central Conference of American Rabbis, International Association of Machinists, National Consumers' League, United Society of Christian Endeavor, United Synagogue of America, World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches.

Among officers and members of the executive board of the council are: Jane Adams, Carrie Chapman Catt, Will Irwin, President Lowell, William Allen White, Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, Mrs. J. Borden Hartman, Dr. John A. Ryan and Gray Silver.

RUSSIAN EXILES LOOKING TO U. S.

Exiles Now In Philippines Want to Emigrate to United States

(By the Associated Press)

MANILA.—A survey of the condition of the 250 Russian refugees who arrived here nearly a year and a half ago from Vladivostok is to be made by the Philippine Health department, the bureau of customs and a physician of the United States quarantine service to determine whether they are qualified to enter the United States. There appears to be little likelihood of the refugees being allowed to land in the United States for many months to come, but Admiral Stark, who led the colony from Vladivostok, expresses the hope that arrangements for admission of most of the Russians may be made.

About a year ago some 600 of the 850 who came here in February 1923 were sent to San Francisco on the army transport Merritt and reports from them about favorable conditions in the United States have caused their friends and relatives remaining here to renew their efforts to reach America.

The colony of some 7,000, headed by Admiral Stark, adherent of the old monarchical regime, was forced to leave Vladivostok by the soviet. They took 16 small ships and set out late in 1922 to look for a country in which to land. Several thousands were dropped in Korea and other thousands were left in China, a number of ships being sold enroute to obtain subsistence. When they reached the Philippines the personnel had dwindled to 850 and the number of ships to eleven. During the last year and a half five more of the ships have been sold, leaving six now at the Olongapo naval station.

BLOOD impurities are pumped by the heart into the face. That is what causes that grainy appearance, that muddiness, sallowness, pimples, blackheads, acne, red spots, and that "something" which no face cream, massage, or face powder can cover up or beautify! The foundation for a beautiful skin simply is not there, and no face treatment can give it to you. But increase your red-blood-cells, and quickly the ruby tint of purity begins to glow in the cheeks, the complexion becomes Venus-like and immaculate! Try it. It will do it every time. ## War Clouds

By Hertsie Wobson,
War Correspondent
Ada—The war is over and the occupation area has been evacuated.

Convention Hall—Mlle. Somers was spied upon in this sector while taking her daily dose. It was rumored that the Mlle. made a very embarrassing break before the troops when she forgot to dress before the reviewing officers.

In the Harris, G. H. Q. of the troops much devastation was done, three windows, two screens, twelve beds and a stairway railing fell before the occupying forces. The walls were decorated however with attractive posters.

Many dead bottles were found in this sector. There will be no military funeral.

As a result of the occupation, 417 friendly fights were reported to the G. H. Q. This does not include conflicts where only one swat was required.

The number of shell-shocked troops as a result of the occupation here is considered appalling. Some cases are considered serious. Reports of attempts to jump out of third story windows, and promenades in sparse clothing indicates that the occupation here was quite a strain on the forces.

WAS SO NERVOUS SHE CRIED FOR RELIEF

The wonderful reconstructive and health-giving powers of Tanlac are again very forcefully demonstrated. This time in the case of Mrs. Gertrude Walsh, who operates the Red Ball Hotel, 208 North Alamo St., San Antonio, Texas. Mrs. Walsh relates her remarkable experience as follows:

"The way Tanlac built me up six months ago, or more, was truly wonderful, and another good part about it is my health has been all I could ask ever since. Before taking this medicine I was actually so nervous that I could not keep the tears back. I was troubled with indigestion so bad that my food felt like a rock in the pit of my stomach, and I could hardly eat or sleep.

"At times my head would swim and my heart would flutter until I feared I had heart trouble. At this time I was running a restaurant at Kennedy, Texas, and was so run-down, nervous and irritable that it was a dreadful burden for me to wait on my customers.

"I decided to try Tanlac from seeing it displayed in a drug store across the street, and after taking the first two bottles a wonderful change had come over me. My stomach misery was all relieved, my nerves more calm, my appetite improved and I began to take on weight and strength. Seven bottles ran my weight up about 50 pounds, and left me feeling fine. I could not do otherwise than praise Tanlac.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

TENNESSEE WILL ELECT GOVERNOR

Democrats and Republicans
To Vote for State
Offices

(By the Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 28.—Qualified voters of Tennessee will August 7 cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice in two state primaries, a judicial election and local primaries in the various counties.

Both Democrats and Republicans will stage primary elections for state offices. Two members of the Supreme Court, Judge W. L. Cook, of Charlotte and Judge A. W. Chambliss, of Chattanooga and two Court of Appeals, Justices Judge Arthur Crowner, of Winchester and Judge R. A. Davis, of Athens, all appointed to office due to vacancies during the present administration of Governor Peay, are to be voted upon.

There is no opposition in the court races.

Governor Austin Peay, rounding out the last months of his first administration, is a candidate for re-nomination, seeking a return to the gubernatorial chair on his program of administration reforms, tax equalization and economy of administration. He is opposed on the Democratic ticket of Judge John R. Neal, of Knoxville, former law professor at the University of Tennessee.

Five candidates for the governorship on the Republican ticket were qualified with Joe Brown of Chattanooga, chairman of the State Republican committee. They are: P. H. Peck, of Monroe County, formerly commissioner of agriculture; former Governor A. A. Taylor, of Carter county; Walter White, of Rhea county and W. N. Beasley of Shelby County.

A heated campaign has been under way for weeks for the seat in the United States senate now held by Senator John K. Shields, of Knoxville, a candidate to succeed himself on the Democratic side, being one of three Democrats seeking the honor. The other candidates qualified are Judge Nathan L. Bachman, of Chattanooga and Gen. L. D. Tyson, of Knoxville. Judge Bart Lindsay, of Knoxville, is a leading Republican in the senatorial race.

General Harvey H. Hannah, of Oliver Springs, Chairman of the Tennessee Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, a candidate to succeed himself as a member of the commission has encountered opposition in the qualifying of Sam E. Hill, of Knoxville, both Democrats. Congressmen are to be selected in the prescribed number of districts in the primaries.

Sensational Developments Expected From Finding Nude Body

(By the Associated Press)

LA PEER, Mich., July 29.—Sensational developments within the next 24 hours in the search for the slayer of Mrs. Blanche Burke, 28, whose nude body was found here Sunday, were suggested as a possibility today by relatives of the dead woman. The father and two sisters of Mrs. Burke, who have been active in the search for her murderer, refused to say what line of investigation they expected to produce the new development.

Meanwhile, county officers took into custody David L. Tiner, 48, of Flint, and Kenneth Blair, 34, of Port Huron who were arrested at Flint City and brought here for questioning.

It was also reported that an employe in the laundry of the Michigan home and training school, a state institution for the feeble minded where Mrs. Burke worked, had at one time quarreled with her and was quoted as threatening "to get her," but the name of the person was withheld.

The coroner's jury last night brought in a verdict that the woman had met death by "strangulation at the hands of a person unknown." Physicians testified at the inquest that the woman had not been assaulted.

Funeral services for Mrs. Burke will be held here today.

T. N. ROBBETT, PIONEER JUDGE, DIES AT DAVIS

ARDMORE, July 29.—Thomas N. Robbott died Monday evening at 7 o'clock at his home in Davis following an illness of many months.

His widow and one daughter survive him. Funeral services are being held this afternoon in Davis. Judge Robbott was a native of East Texas. He moved to Indian Territory prior to statehood. He served as referee in bankruptcy in Pauls Valley and after moving to Ardmore he served here as United States commissioner. He always took an active interest in politics. He was one of the best read men in this portion of the state in matters pertaining to politics and he was a ready debater.

He was a Republican and many a time he has made it warm for Democrats who opposed him. After coming to this country he married a daughter of Knott Tracy of Davis and she survives him. His age was about 55 years.

A famous woman doctor says men patients are always overwhelmed with self-pity.

ENTERTAINMENT OF DISABLED SOLDIERS IS FEATURE

Of the many efforts of the hosts and hostesses in Ada for the visiting soldiers who were our guests for the three past days, there were none more happy to serve and make the days long to be remembered, than the ladies who responded to the plans of one or two who had the inspiration to serve the group of soldier boys from the hospital at Sulphur to a real home grown, home cooked chicken dinner, with all the accompanying viands, at the City Park Monday evening.

From a small beginning many great things are often accomplished so it was with the development of this lovely spread for every housewife who had an inkling of the plans were anxious to contribute to the menu and entertain those of our guests who could not take part in the numerous festivities.

PENSIONS OF $80 YEARLY PROTESTED BY SOCIALISTS

BERNE, Switzerland.—A pension of $80 a year to all citizens of 65 years of age is provided for by the measure now before the Swiss parliament. Half of the cost is to be covered by the state, and to this end it is proposed to increase the tax on alcoholic liquors. The other half of the cost is to be provided by the insured and by those employing them.

The measure is meeting with general favor, except from the Socialists, who find $80 a year insufficient. They also urge that the pension be paid also to the invalids of any age.

Synopsis

BOOK ONE—CHAPTER I.—Fleeing from a brutal stepfather, an unhappy home, and a proposed husband she detests, Myrtle, young French girl, stands in a country road on the verge of desperation.

CHAPTER II.—Halted by an exploded tire, two young Englishmen, Lord Gerald Dombey and Christopher Bent, are attracted by the girl's distressed appearance. She begs them to take her away from her misery. In a spirit of adventure they do so, conveying her to Monte Carlo and leaving her with friends. Myrtle speaks English, her mother having been an educated woman.

Myrtle had been looking from one to the other of her two companions with a sense of growing trouble in her eyes.

"Messieurs," she interrupted, "it was wrong of me not to tell you before. I

"I speak a little English. I understand very well."

"You are a most amazing child!" Gerald exclaimed, looking down at her in genuine astonishment. "You have never been ten kilometers from your home, and you speak a foreign language! That comes of having a schoolmistress for a mother, I suppose. However, have no fear. We shall dispose of you pleasantly."

"Tomorrow," she said timidly, "I can find work."

"Tomorrow be hanged!" Gerald replied. "Look about you, little one. We are entering the town. If your story is true—and we know that it is," he added hastily, "you see for the first time shops, villas, hotels. The building in front of us is the casino. Now you see the lights that fringe the bay."

"It is amazing," Myrtle murmured. They drew up at the side door of the hotel where the two young men were to stay. Gerald descended.

"Take care of the child for a few minutes, Chris," he begged. "I am going to interview one of the house-keepers."

He disappeared into the hotel. Myrtle watched his tall, slim figure until it was lost to sight. Then the fear seemed to return. She shivered.

"I am a trouble to him," she faltered. "He will hate me for it. I only meant that you should drive me somewhere where I could lose myself. Perhaps I had better go, monsieur. Can I not slip away before he returns?"

"He would be very angry if you did," Christopher assured her. "He has gone to arrange for some one to look after you for the night. Tomorrow I think you will do well if you try to find some work. If you wish it, I will help you."

Her eyes still devoured the door through which Gerald had passed.

"Tell me his name?" she begged.

"His name," Christopher replied, "is Gerald Annesley Dombey."

She repeated it after him, a little hesitatingly.

"I shall always think of him as Gerald," she said. "It is a very pretty name. Tell me, why did the champagne say 'your lordship'?"

"Because he is the eldest son of an earl and he is entitled to be called Lord Dombey."

"He is noble, then? I am not surprised. He seemed like that to me. And you, monsieur? May I know your name?"

"My name is Christopher Bent," he replied, "plain Christopher Bent."

"Christopher is a very nice name," she said, with a trifle of unconscious condescension, "but of course it is not like Gerald's."

She looked longingly back towards the crowded doorway, and the young man who stood by her side was aware of a curious and altogether inexplicable sensation. He suddenly found himself envying Gerald's careless but fascinating manners, his good looks, his light, debonaire manner of speech. Even this little wait picked up at the roadside was already under his spell. Then Christopher remembered other things about his friend, and his face grew stern.

Gerald returned presently with a neatly-dressed young woman. He held out his hands to Myrtle and assisted her to alight.

"It is all arranged, child," he announced. "Annette is a chambermaid here. She will take you to some rooms close at hand, where you will be made comfortable. Tomorrow morning, early, Christopher and I will come and see you."

"Mademoiselle will be entirely well suited," the young woman declared. "It is but a few yards away."

Myrtle, still wrapped in Christopher's coat, looked a little pathetic as she stood upon the pavement by Annette's side.

"I shall not see you again tonight, then, Monsieur Lord Dombey?" she asked shyly.

"Not tonight," he laughed. "And 'Monsieur Gerald' is quite enough from you, petite. Tomorrow we will have a long talk. Have no fear—you shall not return to the farm unless it is your wish."

Myrtle stooped and with a sudden, passionate gesture raised his hand to her lips. Then she dragged Annette off without looking behind. Gerald laughed a little consciously.

"Our village maiden is somewhat demonstrative," he remarked lightly. "Come on, Chris. A cocktail while they unpack our clothes. I've telephoned to the villa. We must do a duty dinner there first, but afterward I will show you the land where the pleasure seekers of the world have built their temple."

Chapter III

Lady Mary Dombey was a young woman of very pleasing appearance, but there were occasions upon which she could look stern. This was one of them.

"I am never surprised at anything that Gerald does," she told Christopher, who was seated next her at the dinner table, "but I must say that I should never have expected you to have been mixed up in one of his escapades. What are you going to do with the girl?"

"We hoped," Christopher ventured, a little doubtfully, "that you might be able to make use of her as a kind of under sewing maid, or something of that sort."

"Thank you," Lady Mary replied, without enthusiasm. "I am perfectly satisfied with the services of my own maid."

Lord Hinterley, who had taken only a languid interest in the conversation, intervened for the first time.

"Where is the young person now?" he inquired.

"In some rooms one of the house-keepers at the hotel found for me, sir," Gerald replied.

Lady Mary rose to her feet.

"I can't decide," she said, "which of you two has lost his heart to this paragon of village loveliness. However, I feel sure that my advice is the best. Send her back to her people."

Gerald strolled to the door with his sister and returning to his place, fingering his cigarette case irritably.

Lord Hinterley slipped his wine thoughtfully.

"I am not suggesting for a single moment," he observed, "that your attitude toward this young woman is not and will not always be entirely irreproachable, but at the same time you must remember that we are in a country where such adventures are likely to be misunderstood. I feel inclined, therefore, to endorse your sister's advice. I should do all that I could to encourage her to return to her people."

"We'll talk to her in the morning, sir," Gerald promised.

"I shall retire to the drawing room and persuade Mary to sing to me, and you two young fellows can smoke to your heart's content. Give me four arm, Gerald."

"Don't think we shall stop long, if you'll excuse us, sir," Gerald confided, as he rose to his feet. "It's Christopher's first night in Monte Carlo and I want to show him the ropes. Come along, old chap, and make your adieu," he added, turning to his friend.

Lady Mary made room for Christopher by her side. She was scarcely possessed of her brother's good looks, but her complexion was good, her features unexceptionable, her eyes clear and as a rule sympathetic, her tone and manner attractive. Her figure, especially in a riding habit, was undeniably, her skill at golf and tennis far above the ordinary amateur. It was not for lack of offers that, at twenty-four years of age she was still unmarried.

They talked for some time with interest. Lady Mary's wit was keen and her insight unusual. During a pause

Not one died, rather they thrived, he declared on the witness stand. Although defense counsel questioned the advisability of the experiment in their conversation, Lord Hinterley looked across the room through his horn-rimmed eyeglasses.

"Your friend seems to get on very well with Mary," he remarked.

"They've always been pals," Gerald acquiesced.

"Doing pretty well at the bar, isn't he?"

"Thundering well. They say he's certain to be one of our youngest K. C.'s."

Lord Hinterley said nothing for several moments.

"Mary has her aunt's hundred thousand pounds," he said at length. "She is a difficult young person to marry. Knows her own mind, though. I should never interfere."

"Chris is a good fellow, but I don't fancy he has any thought of marrying just yet," Gerald remarked. "You won't mind if I take him off now, sir? We shall meet for lunch at the Golf Club tomorrow."

Christopher obeyed his friend's summons without enthusiasm. Gerald, however, was both insistent and impatient, and the two young men took their leave a few minutes later.

Gerald dragged his friend into the bureau of the casino, where they obtained their tickets for the Cercle Prive, and afterwards on to the Sporting Club, the Mecca of Gerald's desires for the evening, at any rate. Christopher, breathed a little more freely here than in the casino; the atmosphere was less pernicious, the crowd by which he was surrounded far more attractive. After Gerald had taken a seat at the baccarat table, he wandered around for some time, fascinated by this strange, cosmopolitan gathering, their diversity in class, manners and dress. Presently he found a seat in the little bar, ordered a whisky and soda and leaned back to watch the never-ceasing stream of pleasure-seeking loiterers. Suddenly, without any warning, his thoughts played him a queer trick. He was back on the cool, sunlit hillside, with the odor of the violets and the pines in his nostrils, and the girl looking over the gate. She turned her head and he saw her face—her beautiful eyes, with their passionate, terrified appeal; her quivering lips, her child's figure; the tender appeal of her, the soul and sweetness of her innocent youth clinging like some fresh, sweet perfume to her trembling body.

Gerald stood suddenly before him, his face aflame, his eyes brilliant. His voice quivered slightly with subdued excitement.

"Christopher, you moonstruck old dodger," he cried, "wake up! I have seen the most wonderful creature on earth. I won't leave this place until I find out who she is."

"What, another adventure?" Christopher exclaimed. "You're not thinking about Myrtle?"

"That child? No!" was the impatient rejoinder. "I tell you it's some one here tonight. She's either French or Russian or Italian—I can't make up my mind which. She is with an older woman, who seems to be a sort of attendant. Every one's talking about her, but no one seems to know who she is. 'Wait till you see her! I'm not easily led away. I've seen the most beautiful women in most of the capitals of the world. I was at Vienna and Rome before the war, you know, but I never—Don't move, Chris. Don't look as though I've been talking about them. Here they come!'"

Christopher watched the approach of the two women with an interest casual at first but real enough as they drew nearer. The younger of the two walked slightly in advance. She was rather over the medium height, and her carriage, although she was not in the least assertive, was full of the simple dignity of one who has been accustomed to command respect. She was slim, yet the outlines of her figure were so soft as to become almost voluptuous. She wore a dress of perfectly plain black lace, against which the skin of her neck and shoulders seemed of almost alabaster whiteness. Her only ornament was a long, double string of pearls of unusual size. Her hair, glossy and absolutely jet black, was brushed from her forehead and around her ears so that it seemed almost like a sheath. Her complexion was absolutely pallid, her lips a natural scarlet. Her eyes were of a deep shade of brown, inclined to be half closed, as though she were short-sighted. Her eyelashes were long and silky; her eyebrows looked as though they had been penciled, and yet left a conviction of entire naturalness. Such details as remained of her toilette were unique yet simple. The woman who followed her possessed also an air of distinction, but she was middle-aged, with gray hair and somewhat untidy figure. She carried herself with an air of deference toward her companion.

"Well?" Gerald whispered excitedly.

"She is very beautiful and very unusual," Christopher admitted. "Have you no idea who she is?"

"If I had found any one who knew who they were, I should have been introduced before now," was the blunt reply. "Freddie Carruthers has gone down to ask the superintendent."

The two women subsided on to a couch. The elder one gave an order to a waiter, the younger one glanced indifferently around.

"I wish Carruthers would come," Gerald muttered impatiently. "I didn't exaggerate, did I, Chris?"

"No," the latter admitted. "I can't say that you did. She is very wonderful and very interesting. It is quite your day for adventures."

Gerald laughed scornfully.

"You're not comparing our little protegee from the hills—with her, are you?" he demanded.

"Each has her charm," Christopher replied.

Gerald leaned back in his chair and laughed long and heartily.

"Our little wild rose," he said, "is like a thousand others—a pretty face, a fascinating age, confiding manners. In twenty-four hours she would have taught you all that she could know of love and life. She is as much a yoke! intellectually as this girl is a mystery. Are there any queens or royal princesses wandering about the world nowadays, Chris? I swear that she looks as though she had stepped down from a throne. Thank heavens, here comes Carruthers!"

A young man who had been staring in at the doorway recognized Gerald and came across to them.

"No, go, old thing," he confided, leaning down. "They are registered here as Madame and Mademoiselle de Poniere—aunt and niece. The old buffer downstairs, however, admitted that he believed that to be an assumed name."

"Couldn't you bribe him, or something?" Gerald asked eagerly.

"Old Johnny fairly cornered me," Carruthers explained. "The two ladies, he told me, had declared their desire to remain incognito. It was not, therefore, the business of a gentleman to be inquisitive. Whereupon I came away with my tail between my legs. All the same, I don't believe he has the least idea who they are."

Gerald sighed.

"I shall know her sooner or later," he muttered, "but it's such a waste of precious time."

"You won't forget that we promised to go and see Myrtle early?" Christopher reminded him.

Gerald stared at his friend.

"Myrtle? Who the devil? Why, the child from the violet farm, of course! I'd forgotten all about her."

BRANTING SOUNDS NOTE FOR SWEDISH SOCIALISTS

STOCKHOLM.—Socialism by education by evolution instead of revolution, peace by preparing for peace instead of war, the gradual elimination of militarism, the opposition to private uncontrolled capitalism, a secure home for every citizen, and strip of Swedish soil for every Swede who wants it, these are the outstanding points of the key-note address delivered here by Hjalmar Branting at the Swedish Social Democrat Party congress. This address holds a special significance as clearly defining the Social-Democrat platform in the elections this fall that may give Sweden its third Social government.

"We have faith in labor's historical function in the reform society," said Mr. Branting, "and we now begin to see the light of dawn through the darkness. We realize that it was a mistake to think that political supremacy would be sufficient, and we know now that our ideals must grow into integral elements of society itself. We must, above all, mobilize and utilize the great moral forces among the laboring classes."

The ex-premier's speech was received with a demonstration of approval by the assembly of delegates from all districts of Sweden, and was likewise strongly endorsed by the visiting delegates from Norway, Denmark, Finland, England, Belgium, and Poland.

BRITISH PASTORS DEFEND ALCOHOL

America is Being Used as Horrible Example by Clergyman

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON.—America is being used as the horrible example by the English anti-prohibitionists in their increasing frequent meetings over England.

The Rev. Wyndham Heatcliffe, of Maidstone, recently addressed a meeting at the Corn Exchange, during which he described the working of the illicit drink traffic in the United States as he observed it on a recent trip. He produced canes, dummy books and even a cigar capable of carrying small quantities of liquor which he stated were used, with many other novelties, in a continual if unlawful service. America under prohibition, he declared, had become a more corrupt, more criminal and drunken nation.

The speaker said he apposed prohibition because it was subversive to democracy and was opposed to Christianity. The democracy in him, he said, was too strong to allow him to compel his neighbor to do what he did not want to do in the conduct of his private affairs. There were some matters with which neither governments nor majorities had anything to do whatever. They had no right, he maintained, to interfere with the way in which the individuals worshipped; no right to dictate the choice of the woman a man should marry, and no right to order what should be eaten or drunk. In regard to religion he challenged any Christian to tell him that wine was wrong when Christ drank and blessed it.

Dr. H. H. Henson, the Bishop of Durham, is another opponent of prohibition and is of the opinion that "coercion is not a legitimate method of advancing morality." Speaking at a recent Rotary Club meeting here he said:

"We are told we ought to identify the drinking of alcoholic beverages with an immoral act. As a moderate drinker from my youth up, and intending so to continue until the end, I passionately repudiate that. It is a perversion of the truth to identify the temperate use of liquors with an immoral excess."

"Prohibition pushes positive law beyond the proper limitations of personal rights. Total abstinence from alcoholic beverages is no part of morality, and the moderate use of alcohol is the tradition of Christendom from the example of the Divine founder and His apostles through all the ages to this moment."

missionaries are already in the field hestates—and are accomplishing exceptional results.

Ennion's Idea

Twenty centuries ago a Sidonian craftsman inscribed on a drinking glass he had made, these words: "Made by Ennion, let the buyer remember." This is said to be the first advertisement.

Today, every manufacturer who is really proud of his products, marks it, that all may know and identify his work. Then, by advertising, he throws on both product and mark the search-light of public attention.

Only good friends, fairly priced, can flourish in the light of advertising. The goods must be as advertised. Otherwise, they lose caste in the buyer's mind. And no business can thrive under the weight of public condemnation.

That is why a merchant or manufacturer places the reputation of his business at stake every time he advertises. He spends his money to invite your consideration of his wares, and then, perforce, must leave the final decision to you.

OBITUARY

JAMES SAMUEL RYAN
James Samuel Ryan, 11-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Ryan, died Tuesday at 3 o'clock p. m.

Funeral services were conducted from the family home, 117 East Fourteenth street this afternoon. Rev. R. E. McCain officiating. Interment at Rosedale cemetery.

FRANCIS.
The Francis township fair will open here on the 5th day of September and the managers think that the exhibits will be better this time than ever before. The farmers are expressing a willingness to bring their exhibits in due time.

The pipe line people are hauling their piping and other supplies out and will begin work laying the pipe and erecting the pumping plant in the next few days.

They are still at work out at the well on section 19 and have the well down about 2500 feet. They are having a lot of trouble from salt water and cave in.

The town of Francis is full of men here to work on the pipe line. They came from the company's headquarters and will remain here until the work is completed.

The work is still going at the new buildings that are being erected in Francis and they will be completed in the next few weeks.

The rain that fell the latter part of last week has caused a great improvement in the outlook for all crops in this part of the county.

The town council at its last meeting elected E. V. Rushing as one of their members to fill out the unexpired term of H. H. Hudson, resigned.

A number of the citizens of Francis went to Ada Monday to attend the state legion meeting and are pleased with the success of that meeting.

Francis is now on a small boom and every thing is picking up from our business houses to the Francis National bank.

There is a fear among our school officials that our school will be delayed on account of books. But the people are hoping that that matter will be adjusted in time for the school to begin.

STEPHENS QUOTES FROM THE RECORD

I did not intend to use any personal references in my campaign for re-election to the office of county commissioner from District No. 1. I wanted to let the mantle of charity cover the deeds of others. But since my record has been attacked, I wish to point out a few things I have done and a few things which were done before I went into office.

Funding Bonds:
I have always maintained that funding bonds should not be put on the people. Since I have been in office, I have approved only one funding bond issue. This was for $51,000, a part of which was for judgments obtained by creditors against the county during the term of my predecessor. The rest was for badly needed road improvement as a result of the unusual floods of more than a year ago. Compare this record with the commissioner who preceded me. Here it is.

Funding bonds total $171,415.
September 17, 1917.....$ 19,000
May 15, 1918.....9,765
January 1, 1919.....16,850
September 8, 1919.....33,800
February 7, 1921.....86,000

Total.....$171,415
In addition there was spent a total of $57,000 for Allen township and $52,000 for Francis township obtained from voted bonds.

Who, if anybody, has misused the power given by the people of this county? How does this compare with only one funding bond, which is now pending in the supreme court?

The tax valuations of this county have not increased during my term of office. On the other hand they have decreased each year, totaling a decrease of more than one million dollars.

I give and get the best co-operation with the state highway department. It will be impossible for any person to get better co-operation than I am getting.

The gasoline tax is increasing, and I believe the results of the tax are beginning to show. With many of the early day bridges replaced with permanent structures, I can get permanent highways and keep them permanent, as well as build a good road along the other section lines.

I have given the people a sane, economical administration. I have protected the funds of the taxpayers. I have built roads in the face of the worst obstacles a human being ever met. I have kept the faith. I am not and have never been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. I have been endorsed by no set of men and do not want to be endorsed by any set of men except the Democratic voters of this district. I owe allegiance to no organization and will be free to give the people an honest administration, just as I have done in the past.

My record has been made. That of my opponent has been made. If you will take these records and compare them, I have no doubt as to the result.

Very truly yours,

Banking Made Easy

COATESVILLE, Pa.—Twenty-four hour service for depositors has been inaugurated by a bank in Phoenixville, near here. After banking hours patrons of the institution are permitted to deposit their money in a chute which runs direct to the vault, where the money rests safely. The service resulted from the request of merchants who desired to make deposits at night rather than place large sums of money in small safes until the next day.

EXPERT TO BE HIRED TO DESIGNATE STATION

OKLAHOMA CITY—Baxter Brown railway engineering expert, will be secured by the citizens' committee on the union station project to make a further study of the railway problem here, preliminary to appearing before the interstate commerce commission in the final hearing which probably will be held the last of September or the first of October.

Sufficient funds to engage Brown were pledged Tuesday night at a meeting of the committee, held in the new union station committee headquarters office in the Braniff building. Immediate steps will be taken also to secure all data possible on number of passengers who are forced to transfer from one station to another in passing through the city, as well as data on the traffic congestion resulting from passage of long trains through the main section of the city on the Rock Island line.

Then there's something wrong and likely it's your kidneys. Why not get at the cause? Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Read what this Ada resident says:

F. M. Jones, 315 N. 13th St., says: "My back ached steadily and my kidneys were disordered. I used Doan's Pills and they helped me a lot."

A FEW YEARS LATER, Mr. Jones said: "I have the same good word for Doan's Pills as when I formerly recommended them. I take Doan's whenever I have occasion to use a kidney medicine."

ADA WINS THIRD GAME OF SERIES

Wilson Decisively Defeated in Final Game as Result Of Slugfest

In a slugfest contest in which 25 hits were garnered by the two teams Ada Independents won the third game of their series from the Wilson visitors, taking all three games from their opponents. Yesterday's game resulted in a score of Ada 13 Wilson 8.

Ada started the game off with two runs in the first inning, adding and two in the fourth. Wilson went on a spree in the sixth and pushed across five runs. Ada added four in their half of the same inning. Wilson gathered in one run in the seventh and two in the last effort in the ninth after the locals had added one in the eighth.

The game was featured by frequent and hard hitting and daring base running. Lloyd Waner again robbed Wilson of several hits by his fast fielding. Page and Kirkpatrick also handled their chances with their usual steadiness.

Ted Blankenship did not arrive as scheduled so Formby, who pitched Sunday, again took the box. He was replaced by Davis when he weakened in the sixth, after holding Wilson scoreless for five innings. Ham Morrison of Oklahoma university fame was knocked out of the box in two innings of play. Keller took his place and pitched the same out.

The locals, in collecting fourteen hits, delivered some terrific blows, the climax coming when Benny Page sent the ball high over the right field fence with two men on base. Ralph Waner got his share of hits with a double and single. Lloyd Waner collected three singles. Page was heavy hitter with a single, a double, and his homerun over the fence. Rutledge got a triple and a single. Fain got one double.

For the visitors Leaird and Keller were high men. Keller got away with a double and two singles, while Leaird in his first three trips to the plate drove in singles. Holland got two singles.

The first strikeout came in the fifth. Keller secured four while Formby added one to his record. Morrison walked two men and Keller one. Formby and Davis gave away four bases.

Seven Men Are Lifted by Magnet, One Hanging Head Downward

To demonstrate the pulling power of an industrial type of electromagnet used for separating metallic substances from other materials, seven men, totaling 1,150 pounds in weight, were suspended from it and lifted clear of the ground. The magnet was hoisted in a rope sling about eight feet from the floor and a metal bar was placed in contact with it. When a current of 230 volts was applied, six men grasped the bar and were lifted clear of the ground. A seventh man, into whose shoes had been placed thin metal plates, was hoisted up and held head downward.

BELASCO PLAY BRIMMING WITH SPARKLING FUN

When "Daddies" opens at the Swain theatre today as the feature attraction, you will have an opportunity to see one of the very finest of stage productions presented in motion pictures by a hand picked cast of brilliant stars. Picture producers for years have been dreaming of the time when they could produce Belasco plays on the screen. The dream of the Warner Brothers came true. This will be the third Belasco success produced by the Warners this year.

"Daddies" is one of the very best of the belasco plays, a clean, sparkling comedy that will chase away the glooms and the joy-killing blues. It is a picture that combines comedy, pathos and drama in just the right proportion for maximum entertainment quality. Advance reports indicate that this picture is already enjoying success as one of the very best pictures of the year.

A bachelor club and the problems of its members who, in a moment of weakness, decide to adopt a war orphan each, gives rise to the very funny comedy situations. There is a very pretty love theme in the case of the bachelor who finds his "orphan" is a very pretty girl of seventeen. And there is pathos in the case of the man who finds his "orphans" to be triplets. But everyone is happy when the extremely pleasing ending shows the bachelors all getting married and making comfortable homes for a number of fine women and children.

A splendid cast has been selected for this picture. Mae Marsh and Harry Myers are the stars. Others in the cast are Claude Gillingwater, Claire Adams, Willard Louis, Crawford Kent, George Woodthorpe, Otto Hoffman, Boyce Combe, Millie Davis, Muriel Frances Dana, Priscilla Dean Moran, the De Brac twins and King Evers. The picture was directed by William A. Selzer. It is another Warner Classic of the Screen.

Bugs, Not Cold, Take Birds to Southern Climes

Scarcity of insects, owing to the approach of winter, and not cold weather, causes birds to start south when the frosts arrive, according to a western scientist. Seed or flesh-eating fowl, unaffected by the lack of bugs, survive all year as far north as the Arctic Circle. While migrations are largely determined by the food supply, it is believed that habits inherited from the glacial ages partly influence some species. The tern makes a continuous 11,000-mile flight between the polar regions of the north and south, while the golden plover, which spends its summers in the Arctic and its winters in South America, goes first to Nova Scotia as it starts southward, then flies 2,400 miles to Brazil.

Fighting Rooster Fish Is Caught off the Mexican Coast

Rarely caught, and then only after a terrific battle, the rooster fish is described by sportsmen who have encountered it as one of the most beautiful and finest game fish to be found anywhere. Because it roams only in the waters off the west coast of Mexico and South America, it is said to be still unknown to most fishermen. Many expert anglers in the resorts of Lower California have reported the loss of their tackle after a struggle with this fish, so-called because of the grotesque appearance given it by a long fin on the back.

Shoe Protector for the Youngsters

It is a common experience that boys constantly using their coaster wagons wear out the sole of one shoe much faster than the other one, owing to the manner in which the wagon is propelled and braked. Three pairs of shoes and sometimes more are often worn out in this way in one season. A good method of preventing the shoe from such quick wear is by means of an extra sole, made of thick leather and strapped on as shown, the straps being riveted to the extra sole. Two straps are most convenient to use for this purpose, one for the heel and the other for the toe.

Finishing Radio Panels

Panels on radio cabinets usually have a highly polished surface but it is sometimes desirable to have a dull satin finish instead. Such a surface may be obtained by sanding the panel down with a piece of No. 0000 sandpaper, attached to a block padded with a piece of felt or similar material. The block should be about 3 or 4 in. long and the felt about 1/4 in. thick. The panel should be rubbed in one direction only. After the glossy surface is removed the panel should be wiped with an oily rag, and it will then have a beautiful satin finish.

farmer can not regulate production after planting or reduce his force of laborers if times get bad.

The large farm will undoubtedly find its place in every agricultural section, but the small well managed farm will continue to provide a good living and a little besides to thousands of families for many years to come. Small farmers may group around market centers and produce such commodities that have immediate sale at a good price, leaving large farms under efficient management to produce bulky commodities, or a large portion of them, but such conditions will not become general for a great many years. The small farm which produces a living for the family and farm animals and something for the market, will predominate. The farmer, however, who stubbornly clings to the old idea of devoting his land and time to one so-called money crop, to the neglect of the orchard, garden, poultry and dairy cows, with a few good hogs on the side, will finally be forced into town, or become an employee of some corporate farming interest.—Farm and Ranch.

FAMOUS JUDGES STILL MAY ENJOY HARD LIQUOR

THE HAGUE, Holland.—Andrew Carnegie's Peace Palace is to be equipped with a refreshment bar where "hard" drinks may be obtained. This was not accomplished, however without a struggle in the municipal council of The Hague, where prohibition is strongly represented.

The object of the bar was said to be to provide refreshments for students of the Academy of International law connected with the Palace but the temperance advocates argued that judges of the Court of Arbitration also would have access to the bar, and that potent liquor is notoriously bad for sound judgment. The objectors were defeated by a majority of two.

The largest bell in the world is that known as the Great Bell of Moscow which weighs 220 tons.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture report holdings of butter at Chicago, New York, Boston and Philadelphia as follows:
July 26, 1924..... 66,013,067 lbs.
July 26, 1923..... 50,367,687 lbs.
Excess..... 15,645,386 lbs.

Production is far ahead of last year and will probably continue as long as pasturage conditions are favorable.—Swift & Company.

What changes will take place in the farming business during the next two decades? Some assert with positiveness that the small farm is doomed. They argue that cost of production is an important factor in determining profit and that cost of production can only be lowered by employing the most efficient methods. In this argument it is assumed that efficient production requires the latest labor saving machinery and that a large acreage can be operated more economically than the small farm.

Those who take this position have in mind farms that specialize on our major crops, such as cotton, corn and grains, but do not take into consideration other crops which must receive intense cultivation and which do not require the use of a large amount of machinery. There is another factor to be considered. A large farm, even though thoroughly equipped with the most modern labor saving machinery, must be properly managed to hold down overhead or else profits will be small, or not visible at all. Large farms can be economically managed, but there have been more failures than successes. In factories and other large business enterprises, men specialize in different branches of production and each group is under the eyes of a foreman. On a large farm of several thousand acres the question of efficient labor becomes a problem well nigh insurmountable. A foreman can not be provided for the scattered groups and men are unable to specialize in one particular job. The manufacturer can forecast demand and set the price while the

WEATHER FORECAST TO REGULATE CHURCH GOERS

WASHINGTON, July.—A minister, using weather forecasts to fit the attendance to the capacity of his church and the services to the mood of the congregation as affected by the weather, is the latest innovation in utilizing the government's prognostications that has come to the attention of Weather Bureau officials.

The pastor of the large church in one of the country's large cities, whose edifice is unable to hold all that come in "good church weather" but which is not filled in inclement weather or fine outdoor weather, telephones the forecaster at the local weather bureau office every week for Sunday's weather prospects.

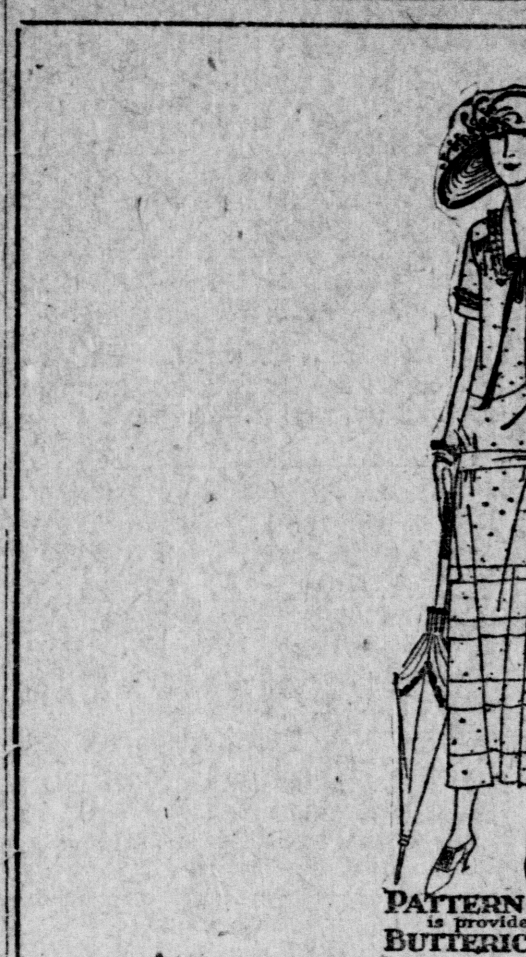

If the forecast indicates weather good enough for church, but not for golf or motoring, publicity through the newspapers is curtailed and no attempt is made to increase the attendance, as the church will be crowded to capacity without such efforts. But if stormy or very fine weather is in prospect, special announcements of sermon and attractive musical programs are made in the newspapers and every means is used to arouse interest. A similar course is followed for the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

Gorky Inciting Peasants Against Bolshevik Rule, Says Trotsky

MOSCOW.—Maxim Gorky was violently attacked by Leon Trotsky in a speech before the union of Russian writers. Trotsky declared that Gorky, although undoubtedly one of the most important men of letters of Russia, does not comprehend the Russian revolution of its leaders. "He is stirring up the Russian peasants," said Trotsky, "and inciting them to a revolution against the bolshevik government. This is an activity that cannot be condemned severely enough."
